

“Doing More with Less”

Budget pressures mean fewer staff, but the needs of pupils, or their numbers, have not decreased!

Never has it been more important for teachers’ planning and practice to support a range of learning and emotional needs effectively. Our “Doing More with Less” course, will help teachers plan for inclusion in their classroom management and organisation, as well as actual curricular learning.

This INSET revisits Quality Wave 1, inclusive teaching.

This course is suitable for individuals, who can then cascade their thinking, or for groups of staff to undertake reflective training.

It would benefit the practice of leaders, teachers and TAs in all Key stages and Adult Education.

Contact Noo Thinking for a no obligation, initial, exploratory conversation.

Nicole Godetz runs the course. Nicole has worked in education for over 30 years, mostly in South London; she was a head teacher for 17 years.

She is currently writing a book about good, sustainable inclusive teaching.

Feedback from an INSET day Nicole ran:

“I liked being part of the practical activities that were good for us and suitable for us to use in our teaching. The day was definitely interesting and thought provoking. Lots to think about in my own teaching. I liked watching examples of others teaching and I enjoyed listening to Nicole.”
