

What does the "new normal" and hybrid working look like for your business?

Hybrid working? Show office? No office? All in? All Out?

Do you know what your staff think?

Are you sure what you want to do?

What we do know is:

- More engaged staff are more productive staff
- Greater value feelings lead to greater retention
- Good working experience correlates to good attendance and we do know that productive, stable and great attending staff, are personal criteria linked with high performing businesses.

We also know that, however lovely the boss is, staff are not always truly honest.

This is where Noo Thinking can add real value.

We conduct work practice audits with staff and work with senior leaders to understand, reflect and implement positive change.

Noo Thinking offers individual, small group and whole staff consultation, facilitation and implementation support.

Contact Noo Thinking for a no obligation, initial conversation to explore your "Noo", good working practices.

"The day met all the outlines mentioned in the beginning of the morning. The trainer was very engaging and encouraged a lot of reflective thinking!"
